COUNTY FAIR IS CALLED OFF

Directors Take That Action at Meeting at Ground at 10:30 This Morning.

55TH EXHIBITION NOW HISTORY

Track is so Wet That no Races Could be Held--Feared Rain Tomorrow.

At a meeting of the directors of the Rush County Fair Association held at the fair ground at ten-thirty this morning, it was decided to declare the fair off for this year. It was deemed best not to continue the exhibition over until Saturday.

This action was taken by the association on account of the continued rain and threatening clouds. It was thought that the rain would continue to fall most of the day from the appearance of the clouds and it was feared that bad weather would continue over tomorrow, hence it was decided not to postpone the fair until tomorrow.

A few people traveled to the ground this morning, but it was apparent that the crowd today would be very small. The best shows in the stock department were to be held this morning and the fair directors were loath to call off the fair for that reason, aside from any others. Due to the heavy rain all last night the track was in such a condition this morning that it would have been next to impossible to hold the races.

Rain yesterday afternoon practically destroyed the biggest day of the fair from the spectator's viewpoint, but not from the association's standpoint. The skies were threatening most of the morning, but that did not keep many people away so that the crowd on the ground at noon was larger than was anticipated by the fair board.

There would have been a fine racing card on the getaway day, had the rain not interfered. Only two heats each in the 2:12 pace and the 2:16 trot were raced yesterday afternoon and they would have been finished this afternoon, together with the regular card which was advertised.

The road trot, which furnished some sport, due to the fact that they were all local horses and drivers, was finished yesterday afternoon in spite of the rain. Sunny Jim, driven and owned by James Geraghty, won the last three of the five heats and the race. He took second in the first two heats, which were won by Samuel A., owned and driven by Bert Eakins. Bert Osborne, driving Ruby E., won third money and John Megee driving Star, won fourth.

FINED BY MAYOR.

Frank Griffin of Lafayette pleaded guilty to the charge of public intoxication this morning in police court and was fined one dollar and costs. Griffin was unable to pay the fine and will remain in jail 11 days.

"On account of the extreme scarcity of water and in order to insure the necessary fire protection, the board of town council hereby notifies you to discontinue the use of water for sprinkling purposes until further notified," was the message sent by card to users of the city water on Monday morning by the water works treasurer, Louis Ammerman, says the Liberty Express.

William Bundy of Carthage was in attendance at the county institute the entire week, thus manifesting, as he has ever done, a deep interest in the cause of education. But few such men can be found in any community, but fortunate indeed is the town, city or neighborhood that has them.

BROOKS AT COLUMBUS, O.

Will Start in 2:15 Pace There Next Thursday.

Horrie Brooks, who won a race this week with John D. at the London, O., fair, has shipped to Columbus, Ohio, where he will start next Thursday in the $1,000 purse race for 2:15 paces. Mr. Brooks left London yesterday and will work out on the Columbus track. He has had a very successful season so far, having won a majority of the races he has started in.

SPEARING FISH NOW PERMITTED

State Fish and Game Commissioner Will Allow That Practice After Permit is Obtained.

SOME "UNDESIRABLE FISH".

That George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, has extended his liberal policy in the enforcement of the fish and game laws of the state to admit spearing of undesirable fish in Indiana streams, was made known when R. D. Fleming, chief deputy of Mr. Miles, asserted that he had issued orders to his deputies throughout the state that would release them from the necessity of arresting persons found with spears in their possession, unless such persons were found spearing game fish.

Mr. Fleming's argument in support of this interpretation of the game law is the same as those advanced by the commissioner in support of issuance of seining permits to clubs of responsible persons, which agree not to take game fish from the rivers and creeks of Indiana.

The chief deputy declared that many of the streams in southern Indiana are veritable nests of carp and quillback and that rod and line fishing is practically impossible in those streams. The necessity of ridding the rivers of the scourges is imperative, according to Mr. Fleming.

A SNUFF, A SNEEZE AND THEY'RE OFF

First Signs of Hay Fever Come And Many Rushville People Hie For the North.

IS COMMON AILMENT HERE

There are many Rushvilleites who are well aware of the fact that hay fever time is here. Those who can are planning to get away to the north ern lakes just as soon as possible, where they hope to escape the worst effects of the dreaded disease. There are many local persons who are troubled with hay fever and annually make a pilgrimage to northern Michigan or some other point along the great lakes, which is noted as being a resort for those afflicted with the ailment.

When the middle of August arrives these afflicted begin to suffer, unless they "beat it" for the north in a week or ten days their eyes are red and swollen, they look as if they had been crying, and they are about the most uncomfortable people to be found.

The quota from Rushville and Rush county has grown annually for several years, and this year will see many additions to the ranks.

RAIN COMES AS A BLESSING

Farmers Say Steady Downpour of Yesterday Probably Saved Corn Crop From Ruin.

LARGE WHEAT ACREAGE IS DUE

Sowing Will Begin First or Second Week of September--Fall Work Delayed.

It was a happy crowd of farmers which gathered in this city today for the fair. They were all satisfied with the continual rain of yesterday even though it did spoil the biggest day of the fair. It is what they have been wanting for some three weeks and they would have reached anything akin to a flood with outstretched arms, so anxious were they for moisture.

The continued drought practically stopped farm work but, now, after the rain of yesterday and last night, they can continue with their fall work. The pastures have been so parched and burned that the stock could get no nourishment from the grass. Many farmers have been compelled to take their stock up and feed them on account of the condition of the pastures.

Farmers have been waiting for this rain for weeks. There is still time for wheat sowing although farmers feared that they would be delayed with this portion of farm work if the rain did not come soon. Sowing does not need to begin before the first of second week of next month.

Some of the farmers may try late sowing, for some October sowing last year produced best results during the recent harvest.

Many of the farmers predict a greater acreage of wheat sowing than for several years in Rush county. They say there is encouragement from the recent crop. But many will put in more wheat in order to utilize land fields where clover was burned out by the drought. Clover was the biggest crop failure of the year.

There would have been few bumper corn yields in Rush county if the rain had not come yesterday, according to a farmer who was here today for the fair. It is said that corn in the black land might have survived the drought for several days yet but corn in ordinary land would have been baked and greatly damaged. But the rain of yesterday, it is believed, saved the crop. Late corn had the best chance to survive but even its chances looked more slim every day the dry spell continued.

VALUE OF VEHICLE LAW

It is Demonstrated When Large Fair Crowd is Here.

Yesterday the value of the vehicle ordinance passed by the city council recently, was fully shown. One policeman was stationed at the principal corner where most of the traffic was, all of the day and vehicles were made to travel in accordance with the ordinance all the time. The result was that there were no accidents even though there were more automobiles and buggies in the city than there have been for many months. There was considerable confusion in the streets yesterday evening when the fair crowd came from the fair ground on account of the rain and accidents were avoided only by the strict obeying of the ordinance.

Joseph Woods is in failing health at his home in Posey township.

YOUNG BUFFALO IS HERE TODAY

Picturesque Crowd of Indians, Cowboys, and U. S. Cavalry Appear in Street Parade.

SHOW IS ABOVE ORDINARY

Many Unusual Features Are to be Seen in Afternoon and Evening Performances.

The Young Buffalo wild west show arrived here this morning from Columbus according to the schedule and unloaded near the vacant lots west of the L. E. & W. where the two performances will be given today, one at two o'clock and one at eight o'clock this evening. An unusually large crowd of people was out to watch the work of unloading.

The parade given this morning proved to be a great revelation to the citizens of Shelbyville. It was far removed from the old stereotyped circus parade and contained enough features to justify the advertisements that the show employs, "The Wonder Show of the World."

The horses were undoubtedly the finest ever seen in Rushville. The bronchos ridden by the cowboys, Indians, and so forth, were of the typical sturdy type of beast that has been immortalized by writers of western fiction, while the heavier baggage stock (in circus parlance), that is, the horses pulling the wagons, could all well have served as models for that famous painting, "The County Fair."

Just as far different from the usual circus parade was the class of music rendered by the three bands.

Of the many striking and interesting features of the parade Colonel Henry Stevens with his original twenty-ox team, was easily the star attraction.

One woman was standing at a corner watching the free part of the show, the parade, and it scarcely suited her. She remarked that they did not have as good a parade as the other show, that they had no animals. The lady should bear in mind that a wild west show never carries animals. The parade was splendid for this kind of an attraction.

This evening's performance will undoubtedly be as big as that of this afternoon and the Young Buffalo's show will always be the most welcome visitor to the city of Rushville. There is a general cleanliness about the show that is remarked by visitors, and one noticeable feature is the fact that no vulgarity, no profane language is permitted on the show grounds, all work being accomplished in a most orderly manner.

The noble red man, sitting beside his old time foes--the U. S. cavalry and the cowboy, were seen in the big street parade of the Young Buffalo Wild West show this afternoon and night. There are representatives of ten tribes of American Indians with the aggregation, which is said to be the largest exhibition of its class in the world.

Although new to this section the Young Buffalo show is well and favorably known throughout the far western states. It is, in reality, a product of the West, conceived and born in the very section of the country whose early life and history it aims accurately to depict. The owners of the Young Buffalo Wild West show are men whose lives have been spent on the frontier; men who have helped build the country; men who were brought up in the saddle and who know the cowboy and the bronco.

The cowboys and rough riders with the Young Buffalo Wild West show are real, and have been engaged for this aggregation because they possessed the ability to reproduce their hazardous calling in a faithful and realistic manner. There are upwards of 700 cowgirls, Indiana chiefs and warriors, Cingalese, cowboys, Mexican rurales, Russian Cossacks, Tartars, U. S. cavalymen, and N. W. Canadian mounted police with the aggregation, prominent among them being Ambrose Means, the dare-devil American cowboy, who, with the Buffalo Jones expedition, invaded the East African veldt and succeeded in capturing alive rhinoceri, lions, tigers, and other wild animals with his lasso. The prominent magazines of this country and Europe have devoted much space to Means and his daring exploit.

There are many other names on the payroll of the Young Buffalo Wild West show which are known throughout the civilized world for deeds of daring and acts of skill.

SCHOOL SHOULD BE SOCIAL CENTER

A. B. VanOrmer Tells Teachers it Should be Used For All Purposes in Community.

TAKE VOTE ON QUESTION TODAY

The Rush County Teachers' Institute will adjourn this afternoon after a very successful week's meeting. The institute was adjourned yesterday afternoon so as to allow the teachers to go to the fair, but the rain spoiled that part of the program. It was expected that a vote on the question as to whether or not the institute shall be united with the chautauqua would be taken just before the noon adjournment.

Dr. A. B. VanOrmer did not speak according to the program this morning, but used as his subject, "The School as a Social Center." He said that the school should be the center of all social activity in the community. He said that entertainments should be held there, debating societies should be formed in the schools, and that the use of the playground and the school should be continued through the summer vacation.

WIFE'S FEELINGS ARE ALIENATED

A. R. Spencer of New Castle Charges Prominent Spiceland Farmer Broke up His Home.

HE ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES

Sensational Suit is Filed in Henry Circuit Court Against Henry M. Hodson.

A sensational suit, charging criminal conversation and alienating of affections, has been filed in the Henry circuit court, says the New Castle Courier. The plaintiff in the case is Arthur R. Spencer, well known in this city as "Dick" Spencer, and who is employed at the automobile factory. The defendant is Henry M. Hodson, a prominent Spiceland township farmer, living near the Stone Quarry mills. Damages to the extent of $5,000 are demanded.

It is charged in the complaint that the defendant "contriving and wrongfully and wickedly and unjustly intended to injure the plaintiff and to deprive him of the comfort, fellowship and assistance of his wife, Pearl Spencer, and the affection of her for him and went into said Spencer's home and knew said wife carnally and there and then alienated the affections of said wife to the great distress of his mind and great expense of caring for the children of said plaintiff and said Pearl Spencer, and the breaking up of the plaintiff's home."

Mrs. Spencer is now living in Alexandria.

Hodson denies all of the allegations in the complaint and will fight the case to the finish. He has retained Attorney H. G. Yergin to defend him. Hodson was formerly a deputy constable under John Stephens.

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK

Rushville Glove Company is Capitalized at $15,000 Now.

According to the Indianapolis News the Rushville Glove Company has filed notice with the auditor of the State in Indianapolis that the capital stock of the company will be increased from five to fifteen thousand dollars. The increase in capital stock means that the company has been steadily growing since its beginning. It has rapidly risen to a first class manufacturing institution, and, as local people know, has been compelled to move into larger quarters so as to make their output greater. They are adding machines all the time.

Local Churches Sunday School Lesson Christian Endeavor

sider how safe we are when God hides us. Think of Moses in a cleft of the rock with God's hand covering him, of Elijah hidden by the brook Cherith and at Zarephath and of Jeremiah and Baruch hidden from Jeholokim! If we are true believers we may well rejoice that our life is hid with Christ in God (Col. iii. 3). From the murder of Abel to the present time and on to the time when he shall be shut up for a thousand years the devil's motto seems to be "Kill, kill!" See his dread work in verse 6 of our lesson. Yet the murder of Zedekiah's sons bears no comparison to the murder of the Son of God in the presence of Mary, His mother. These men and all others die because of their own sins. He died for the sins of the whole world.

Some were carried captive to Babylon for their good, like Daniel and his friends, Ezekiel and others, but Zedekiah and his companions were carried captive as a reproach and a proverb, a taunt and a curse. This was shown to Jeremiah in the vision of the two baskets of figs (Jer. xxiv). It is not true concerning every one that "all is for the best," but it is true concerning all who are redeemed by precious blood; that all things are for their good that they may become in their daily life more like Jesus Christ (Rom. viii).

So the city was taken and burned, and the walls were broken down and the people carried into captivity for seventy years, as the Lord had predicted by Jeremiah (chapter xxix, 10). The mountains remained as before, and it is written, "As the mountains (not the walls) are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about His people from henceforth even forever."

The captain of the guard left in the land some of the poor of the people who had nothing and gave them vineyards and fields (verse 10), reminding us of Zeph. iii, 12, "I will also leave in the midst of thee an afflicted and poor people, and they shall trust in the name of the Lord." One feature of the coming kingdom will be kings' special care of and favor to the poor and the needy (Ps. lxxii, 1-4, 12, 13).

Jeremiah was still a prisoner when the city was taken (xxxviii, 28), but the captain of the guard (the chief of the executioners—margin verse 9) received orders from the king of Babylon to look well to him, do him no harm, but do whatever Jeremiah might desire (verses 11, 12; chapter xi, 2-5). Thus was fulfilled the Lord's promise to Jeremiah in chapter i, 19, "I am with thee, saith the Lord, to deliver thee."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 27, 1911.

Topic.—A missionary journey around the world.—VIII. Missions in Persia and Turkey.—Acts iv, 13-21. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

In taking a survey of the various missionary countries of the world it is very appropriate to consider Persia and Turkey at the same time or even together for the reason that in the history of the past their relations to Christianity have been very similar and the problems that confront the Christian church in both countries today are practically the same. The history of God's people has been associated with that of Persia from the very beginning, and the present Turkish empire includes lands where prophets lived and labored, the apostles preached first the good news of salvation and where, above all, occurred the life, the toils, the sorrows, the death and resurrection of our Lord.

In both the supreme conflict is against Mohammedanism, the ancient enemy of the Christian religion. Persia and Turkey therefore appeal to us in the same way for a special interest in our prayers and sympathy and assistance to the end that they may become a part of the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Modern Christian missions in Persia date back just a century ago. The first missionary was Henry Martyn, who learned the Persian language as a chaplain in India. In 1811 he went to Persia to complete and improve the Persian translation of the New Testament. When his translation was finished he tried to get it before the king, but was bitterly opposed by the mullahs, and his book was rejected with scorn. Though he left Persia without the knowledge of a single convert as a result of his labors, yet in after years his translations of the New Testament and Psalms bore remarkable fruit.

The first American missionary to the Turkish empire was Levi Parsons. He reached Jerusalem Feb. 17, 1821, and again the conquest of the Holy Land was begun, not by the methods of the ancient crusaders, but by the modern methods of missionary activity, and let us earnestly pray that these methods may be more successful.

It is a singular fact that there are no mission fields in the world where the Bible has been such an important factor as in Persia and in Turkey, the very places in which God gave His revelations to man. Henry Martyn went to Persia to translate the Scriptures and nothing has been more influential in building up Christ's kingdom in the hearts and lives of men than these very translations. When Levi Parsons went to Jerusalem he had with him the Scriptures in nine languages. Bible distribution is one of the chief agencies of missionary activity today, and in the early days, while few Moslems were converted to Christianity, the number of copies of the Scriptures sold to them indicated a profound interest in the Bible that is bearing fruit today.

The difficulties in the way of advancing the kingdom of Christ in Persia and Turkey are very great. The presence of many sects calling themselves Christians constitute one very great obstacle for the reason that these sects had their origin years ago in strife and bitterness and jealousy and rivalry which still exist among them.

Political conditions present another serious problem. The natural attitude of Moslem governments is bitter enmity to Christianity. It is true that in both Persia and Turkey new rulers are on the throne and constitutional governments seem to be firmly established. The national tendencies seem to be decidedly progressive, but conditions are still unsettled and political situations and their bearing upon Christian missions are far from reassuring. It is a time when the church should spend special seasons in prayer to the God of nations that the new national longings in these lands associated with sacred story should accrue to the advancement of His own kingdom.

The supreme obstacle in the way of missionary success is Mohammedanism, the national religion of both Persia and Turkey, with its fierce spirit of persecution toward all that is Christian and its unyielding attitude of bitter hatred and ostracism toward native Christian converts. Once the penalty was death, and while this penalty can no longer be exacted by law, it is still death to home ties, to social relations and temporal welfare.

The problems presented being the same, the solution is the same—the development of a native Christian church, freed from the errors of the old churches, responsive to the new national aspirations and conditions and thoroughly equipped with schools and colleges to direct the training and education of the present and coming generations of the young men of the land.

SHOUTS OF JOY BY THE MOB

Answered the Cries of Pain of the Burning Man While Officers of the Law Were Indifferent to the Horrid Scene Being Enacted in the Center of the Town of Purcell—Negro Cook of Dining Car Burned Alive.

Shawnee, Okla., Aug. 25.—In the center of the city of Purcell, Okla., at 6:30 o'clock last evening, Peter Carter, a negro, thirty-five years old, a cook on a dining car, was burned at the stake by 2,000 unmasked men and women. Drygoods boxes were piled twenty feet high and the negro was placed on top of the pile by hundreds of willing hands. The boxes were saturated with coal oil, and the fire started. The cries of pain of the burning man were answered by shouts of joy by the mob. No attempt was made by the sheriff or his forces to quiet the mob or to save the negro's life. The man was captured by two negroes two miles south of Purcell and led into town and turned over to the mob. The negro's death was brought about by a heinous crime committed by him Wednesday night on Mrs. M. Spraggar, a white woman, the wife of a young farmer living one mile south of Purcell.

CONSCIENCE STRICKEN

An Illinois Man Clears Mystery of Peoria Merchant's Murder.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 25.—In the arrest of John Phillips at Fulton, Ill., a murder mystery of twelve years' standing has been solved, if a confession Phillips is alleged to have made proves genuine.

John Ellinghaus was shot and killed at his place of business on Feb. 14, 1899. Ellinghaus, who was awakened by a noise at midnight and with his wife descended the stairway, was killed.

Phillips was found at Fulton, Ill., wandering the streets, seemingly in a demented state of mind. When taken in charge by the village marshal, he exclaimed:

"I'm the man who shot Ellinghaus of Peoria."

He is said to have asserted that he was tired of being hunted by officers and that his mind was nearly wrecked by the pangs of conscience.

Express Messenger Davis of Charleston sustained a broken nose and other injuries of a minor character.

They Rejected the Resolution.

Boston, Aug. 25.—The rejection of a resolution indorsing the proposition to have congress pass uniform laws, instead of the various states, and the indorsement of an act regulating marriage and marriage licenses to be adopted by all states of the Union, were the features of an interesting and at times exciting session of the conference of commissioners of uniform state laws.

MADERO AND REYES IN A FINISH FIGHT

Rival Leaders Openly Express Hostility.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 25.—Returning from his trip of pacification in Morelos, where he went to urge the Zapatista revolters to lay down their arms, General Madero says that while he cannot produce the evidence asked by President De La Barra of the treachery of General Bernardo Reyes, he has enough proof to satisfy himself. In the capitol people are saying that if Madero is elected president, Reyes will have to leave the country again, as was the case when he became too popular for Diaz, or head a revolution against Madero.

It is to be a fight to a finish between Madero and Reyes, according to friends of the former. They declare he gave Reyes a choice to return to Mexico and become a useful citizen and that Reyes has been a traitor. Friends of Reyes declare that Madero is jealous of the popularity of the former war minister. Madero has thrown the challenge to the general and accuses him of treachery and of planning to have him shot in battle to assure the success of Reyes in the presidential election.

Harry Atwood Got Another Backset in His Long Flight.

New York, Aug. 25.—Harry Atwood, his engine willing, expected to end his flight from St. Louis to Sheepshead Bay at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but the engine objected. When the biplane was rounding Hook mountain, thirty-one miles from New York, on what was to be the last lap of the sprint down the Hudson, the connecting rod flew loose and began trying to beat the machine to pieces. Atwood glided down two miles and a half north of Nyack. It was late last night before the engine was fixed. The aviator expects to complete his trip this afternoon.

Atwood has traveled 1,245 miles and has broken the record for an unbroken series of distance flights. The previous mark was 1,164 miles.

Fire Reveals Triple Tragedy at Boonville.

SON HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

When Charred Bodies of Richard Lee and His Wife and Seventeen-Year-Old Son Displayed Unmistakable Evidences of Murder, William Lee, an Older Son, Who Gave Alarm of Fire, Was Arrested.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 25.—Richard Lee, aged fifty; Mrs. Lee and Clarence, aged seventeen, their son, were killed in their beds with a hammer and then coal oil poured over their beds and fired. The crime was discovered by the firemen, who were aroused at 3 o'clock in the morning by William Lee, aged twenty-three, older son of Richard Lee, who rushed from the house yelling "fire."

The firemen with the aid of the son broke into the house and rushed into the flames around the beds to drag the bodies out. They were lifeless. Dr. H. M. Robinson was summoned and after examining the partly charred parents and son, said:

"Why, men, these people have been murdered."

William Lee, the older son, was arrested charged with the crime. He confessed to the sheriff that he and his father had quarreled early in the evening about some money. The older son has the reputation of being a sport and spender and has always lived off his father. The boy had returned from Newburg, Ind., Wednesday with a large sum of money belonging to his father. The latter had sold his home in Newburg, and it is known that the son received half of this sum as a wedding present.

William Lee was to marry Miss Mary Taylor, daughter of John Taylor, prominent lawyer of Newburg, the boy's old home, last evening. The father sold his property in Newburg to give his son money to marry on and moved to Boonville several weeks ago. William Lee drove over to Newburg, thirteen miles west of here, Wednesday to get the money and bring it home. He drew $1,500 from the Newburg bank.

When arrested the son had no money on him, but the police are satisfied that the whole of it is hidden about the house. Sheriff Scales, who arrested Lee, claims that the son killed his parents and brother for the remainder of the money.

The head of Richard Lee was caved in, as was his wife's. Clarence, the younger son, was shot through the heart and the top of his head mashed. His body was lying on the floor and it is believed that the murderer awoke him when he killed his father and mother in the adjoining room. He was evidently shot and then hit in the head to make sure of his death.

HE WOULDN'T TREAT

"Belling" Party Throws Bridegroom From House, Seriously Injuring Him.

Washington, Ind., Aug. 25.—Chagrined because their noise-making efforts failed to bring them a "treat," three members of a charivari party rushed into the rear door of the home and, seizing Andrew Edwards, the bridegroom, threw him bodily out of the house and down a flight of stairs. He was picked up in an unconscious condition by his bride and relatives and carried back into the house. A physician who was called found that his shoulder was dislocated, his cheek bone cut, his eye blackened and his scalp cut.

The young men who administered the rough treatment ran away. Names of the charivari crowd are being obtained by Edwards, and he will file affidavits against the members.

Will Hold Him Awhile.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 25.—Charles Goodpasture, wanted as a witness in the case of Luther Platter, proprietor of the "madhouse," a supposed "blind tiger," was arrested here on a charge of contempt of court after having eluded the officers for weeks. He will be in jail until Platter's case is tried in the September term of the circuit court.

Fatal Fall From Window.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 25.—Faye, the three-year-old daughter of Mrs. Harry Goss, who is visiting here from Champaign, Ill., fell from a second-story window of the Hotel Bowles and was fatally injured. The child was sitting in the window, leaning against the screen, when it gave way, and she fell to the sidewalk.

Aviator Beachy is said to flirt with Death. Other aviators go him one better by wanting to marry her right off.

Mr. Taft has put his foot on the wool and free list bills, but a man who wears 11½ shoes has to find room for them somewhere.

Congress won't let Arizona recall its judges, and our new sister is advised to have her sober second thoughts ahead of the first election.

The Democrats having secured free franking of all the speeches their constituents will bother to read, Congress is now permitted to go home.

Aviator Atwood may have beaten the record by his St. Louis, New York trip, but can he walk two miles down to the office in the morning without getting winded?

Mr. Taft will make 200 speeches on his Western trip, but the one into which he will put the most heart will be when he picks up a golf club and yells "Fore."

Niagara Falls must have thrilled Admiral Togo to the bone, as he is reported to have made a lengthy oration of half a dozen words on viewing the majesty of the scene.

The Congressmen are now coming back, and to avoid public disturbance it would be better to leave the train a few miles out, and reach their homes under cover of darkness.

The national tennis tournament is being played at Newport, and we hope they don't tread down Col. Astor's English hay while looking for lost balls.

Mr. Taft goes to the Pacific coast in September, and if he went as far as Kamchatka he would find the office seekers still there saying "Tag, you're it."

"Doc" Wiley says glucose should not be labeled corn syrup, but as people judge a food more by the name than by the way it tastes, it is going to be hard to do business on this method.

Admiral Togo was knocked out by the swift pace of our entertainments. Even a naval hero would need an armor plated stomach to run up against some of our rapid fire dinners.

The many trifling reasons alleged for bouncing Dr. Wiley do not constitute one good reason, as a famous Englishman once remarked in a similar case, any more than any number of rabbits make a horse.

Nearly half of the people of the United States now live in towns and cities of more than 2,500 population. During the last decade the rate of increase of population in cities was three times as large as the rate of increase in the country. One-tenth of the population of the entire country is centered in the cities of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. Centralization is the destructive phenomenon of our civilization. This centralization brings with it problems of ever increasing complexity and gravity. It would be exceedingly difficult to foreshadow either the economic or the political developments of the next dozen years.

The recent slump in the stock market was a typical illustration of the way clever speculators take advantage of the tendency of the nerves to get the better of ordinary business sense.

The break was generally attributed to two things, the bad crop report, and the fear of tariff unsettlement.

As for the latter, it has been generally understood since the last election that some kind of tariff legislation would be passed by the new Congress. Any fears that the sober judgment of last spring pronounced to be needless are equally imaginary today.

As to the crops, experts say there will be an average harvest. The wide spread showers all over the country have greatly helped things since Aug. 1.

People are fooled by stock market prophecies because they fail to remember how short a distance Wall street look ahead. In no other line of business does a man consider merely the current year. If things look good or even five years ahead, he stands pat.

Wall street never considers the wealth of golden harvests assured for years to come. If things look bad for the crop of the immediate moment, the gamblers throw down their chips and sulk.

This is the very climax of the picnic season. New potatoes and sweet corn are now abundant. Their delicious succulence drawn from the quivering ashes, appeals to the remnant of Indian nature that lingers in all of us. Early apples are now at the height of their transitory bloom, ready for roasting in the glowing embers. The day has not yet become short enough to forbid a little loitering after the sandwiches have been consumed and the coffee bottle emptied.

Many men are too conventional to enjoy picnics. They see economic waste in walking a quarter of a mile for spring water, when you can get it out of the cooler at home by ringing for the maid. Why spend three hours in the trip to the picnic ground and back, when you can get your luncheon at a corner restaurant, and be back to the ledgers in a half hour?

On the other hand, some of our poetry spouting women are inclined to force the picnic habit beyond philosophical limits. There is little satisfaction in a suddenly arranged affair, where you sacrifice a sustaining meal of nourishing food at home for a hastily snatched sandwich and a handful of nabisco wafers captured by a hurried raid on the grocery at the moment of setting out.

There is every reason why a picnic should provide a square meal as well as the home table. The ordinary picnic basket has little but sandwiches and cake. No railroad was ever built nor no ditch was ever dug on sandwiches and cake.

But assuming that the prudent picnic mistress has provided her disciples with corn and apples and poted ham and all the substantial of a safe and sane picnic, what a blessed relief it may bring to the grind of toil. How the building and tending of a fire, the rummaging the greenwood for dry fuel, the construction of a stone oven, the slow patient turning of the corn over the embers—how this all brings back the instincts of boyhood, how far away seem those dreary ghosts of trade and labor that so haunt us when we tramp the routine way of daily life to the home dining table!

Only don't become so romantic as to fail to extinguish every spark of your fire, Mr. Pickniaker! Remember that someone has invested money in the woodlands where you toss matches and burning brands freely, and that to someone these woodlands may mean the protection that keeps a family from grinding toil and the acceptance of common charity.

That individual, all bedraggled and mud-stained was hanging around in the streets today and the police almost threatened to run him in if he didn't beat it. Of course, he had some fool notion in his noodle which he had to get out of his system. Finally he lisped to the fellow standing

AMUSEMENTS

The G. Carlton Gay Players will produce a comedy-drama entitled "A Woman's Honor" this evening. It is considered one of the best of the week of repertoire. Last night, the feature play of the week, "Dora Thorne" was given. Rain fell most of the evening which served to lessen the crowd, but despite all hindrances the audience was almost as large as those the other three nights of the week. The play followed the book very closely and proved to be highly entertaining. The tent sheltered the audience from the rain as it is waterproof in the strictest sense of the word. The usual admission price will be charged again this evening.

PRESCRIPTION IS 3,500 YEARS OLD

Egyptian Ostrakon Bears a Cure
For Hysteria.

PAINTED ON POLISHED STONE.

Calls For Fumigation With Powdered
Gems—More Modest Remedies Suffice
For the Poor—Found in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The oldest medical prescription in America, so far as any one knows, has been found in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. It is at least 3,500 years old and is listed in the museum as "Accession No. 988."

"It is written on a small piece of limestone," says the Journal of the American Medical Association, "about 3½ by 3 inches in its present somewhat injured condition, carefully smoothed for the purpose, forming what is called an 'ostrakon.'"

"The writing was done with a brush and some sort of black ink or paint, for pens did not come into use in Egypt until the Roman time. The substance employed was well adapted for its purpose, for the writing is still quite plain, except near the edges of the stone, where fragmentation has occurred."

"The inscription is in the old cursive hieratic writing, somewhat similar to that of the old Ebers papyrus, which dates from about 1600 B. C. It is written on both sides of the stone with what Egyptologists would probably call typical Egyptian neglect of such details, from above down on the longer measurement of the stone on one side, but across on the other side, as some ladies of the present day, after having written down one sheet of letter paper, turn it over and write crosswise on the back of it."

"Unfortunately it is not known whence this specimen comes. It was noticed in the museum some years ago by Max Mueller, who recognized its medical character and translated the inscription, though rather unsatisfactorily. An effort was then made to find the place of its origin, but the specimen had come with a number of other antique finds of many kinds gathered from various portions of Egypt, and its exact provenience, to use the archaeological term, could not be determined."

"The prescription as written seems to be a copy, because portions that in the ordinary medical writings of the time are abbreviated are here written out completely, just as copies of prescriptions written out by druggists today have the abbreviations enlarged."

"The ingredients called for in the prescription are mainly precious stones. These were to be ground up, to be used for fumigation. Professor von Oefele, an authority on ancient Egyptian medicine, suspects the case was one of hysteria, though there is no indication of this on the prescription itself."

"Ground precious stones were favorite remedies for hysterical manifestations. They were used for fumigation whenever the ball in the throat, our gloom hystericus, was a prominent symptom."

"Indications on the prescription show that various classes of precious and semiprecious stones were used for patients of differing degrees of wealth. For the very wealthy a valuable stone like sapphire was used. For those of moderate wealth a more modest stone would do. For the poor malachite, which was rather common, sufficed. The remedies which cure the nervous affections of ordinary people seem never to have been capable of producing the same effect on the neurotic symptoms of the wealthy, for whom something quite different and, above all, much more costly is required."

"Further study of the specimen will doubtless bring out more interesting details with regard to the medicine of the time."

CRUSADE FOR THE EYES.

Movement For Better Care of the Vision to Be Promoted.

The American Association of Vision, which was organized following agitation by the American Medical Association and the Russell Sage foundation to interest the public in care of the eyes, is planning an active campaign of education in many cities. Branches of the association are to be organized in every part of the country, and a day in October, 1913, will be selected, to be known as "Conservation of Vision day," on which, by exhibits and lectures, an opportunity will be given to every person in the country to obtain free instruction regarding the importance of good vision and the methods of preserving it.

The idea has the indorsement of the American Medical Association and the American Association of Workers For the Blind, and efforts are being made to obtain the co-operation of the national, state and local governments, the schools and the churches. It is also expected that many of the 100,000 blind persons in the country will help in the organization of local committees.

Kills Rats and Sparrows.
During the last six months the Harrow Sparrow and Rat club of Essex, England, has destroyed 13,510 rats and 10,132 sparrows.

ABBNEY WAS A FAMOUS ARTIST

Career of the American Illustrator and Painter.

WAS IN HIS SIXTIETH YEAR.

He Painted the Official Picture of the Coronation of King Edward—Planned to Come to This Country When Stricken.

Edwin Austin Abbey, who died recently in London, after John Singer Sargent and the late James McNeill Whistler, was one of the well known members of a group of American painters making England their home. Mr. Abbey's career was possibly less sensational, if by no means less popularly successful, than those of his two distinguished fellow countrymen. His wall panels of the "Knights of King Arthur" in the Boston Public Library, particularly the striking "Sir Galahad," are generally familiar. He was commissioned to paint the coronation of King Edward a decade ago, and before his fatal illness he was arranging to come to this country and to his native state to install his last paintings in the capitol at Harrisburg, Pa.

The official picture of the coronation of his majesty King Edward VII. was exhibited during 1903 and 1904. Of the decorations for the state capitol of Pennsylvania about half had already been delivered, the works finished including the eight paintings in the rotunda, which were placed in 1908, and the paintings for the hall of the house.

Mr. Abbey was in his sixtieth year, having been born at Philadelphia on April 1, 1852. He began his artistic education at the Academy of Fine Arts in the Quaker City, and he held honorary degrees of master of arts from Yale and doctor of laws from the University of Pennsylvania. Abbey went to New York in 1871 and was engaged as an illustrator by the Harpers, going to England for them in 1878. He married Mary Gertrude Mead, daughter of Frederick Mead of New York, in 1890. In that same year he exhibited his first picture to be shown in London at the Royal Academy, entitled "A May Day Morning." Other pictures of his early English period and style were "Flammetta's Song," "Richard III. and Lady Anne," "Hamlet," "O Mistress Mine," "Who Is Sylvia?" "The Trial of Queen Katharine" and "The Penance of Eleanor, Duchess of Gloucester."

Some of His Works.

In addition to the "Coronation of King Edward VII." for which Abbey won the commission in 1901, he had exhibited at the Royal Academy of that year his "Crusaders Sighting Jerusalem." His "Columbus in the New World" dates from 1903. A record for the American church in Paris was completed in the following year. Among many lesser works were Abbey's quaint illustrations to Herrick's poems, as well as to "She Stoops to Conquer," and volumes of "Old Songs" and "Quiet Life," the latter in collaboration with Alfred Parsons, an English artist, and to the "Comedies of Shakespeare." His English country home was at Morgan Hall, Fairfield, Gloucestershire, and his town house in London at Chelsea Lodge, Tite street, S. W., near the home of Sargent.

The artist was a member of many associations both here and abroad. Among these were the National Academy of Design, American Water Color society and Society of Mural Painters of New York, the Royal Academy of London and Royal Bavarian Academy. He was a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France, an associate of the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts, Paris; honorary associate of the Academie des Beaux Arts, fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, associate of the Royal Water Color society, London, and Royal Institute of British Architects, member of the American Institute of Architects and the Society of Artists of Madrid, Spain. Abbey was a member of the Century club in New York, and in London of the Athenaeum, Reform, Arts and Book clubs, and president of the Artists' Cricket club.

M'NAMARAS' TRIAL COSTLY.

Nearly Quarter Million Dollars Will Be Spent Determining Their Guilt.

Seven months will be the elapsed time and $225,000 the cost to the county of Los Angeles, Cal., of the trials of J. J. and J. B. McNamara, alleged dynamiters, it was estimated by attorneys on both sides. The cost of the defense will be about $400,000.

The above figures are based on a presumption that no appeal will ensue. If an application to the higher courts is made the cost may run over $700,000 for both sides.

The cost of the case to the county will include the per diem pay of jurors, the grand jurors and their expenses, the pay of scores of witnesses and their expenses, the salaries of the district attorney, three deputies, county detectives, city police officers, judges, clerks, bailiff and assistants and the court stenographer. William J. Burns' fees for his work will be well over $20,000, it is estimated.

Capacity in Dairy Cows

By P. H. CRANE
Associate in Milk Production, Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

A Holstein Cow Showing Capacity as Indicated by Muzzle, Jaw, Barrel, "Milk Veins" and Udder—Colantha Bakker Fourth, No. 57516, A. R. O. No. 12893—Purdue Herd.

The dairy cow is a machine with a double function. One function is to change raw materials of a comparative low selling value, into an article of high commercial value, leaving on the farm the by-products which contain a large percentage of the fertilizing elements originally found in the raw material.

The other function of this machine is to reproduce her kind. These two functions are very closely related, one being dependent upon the other.

The value of each individual cow, so far as her producing ability is concerned, depends largely upon her capacity throughout, as the correction of organs that have a part in the processes of the manufacture of milk and butterfat, makes it evident that the animal must be well proportioned. A large udder without capacity of barrel and other parts essential to the digestion and circulation will not make the cow as good a producer as indicated by her udder alone.

If a large yield of milk and butterfat is expected, the cow must have the capacity of mastication and digestion to take care of a sufficiently large quantity of feed to maintain her and furnish the required nutrients for milk production. Along with this capacity of mastication and digestion, indicated by a large muzzle and jaw, and a capacious barrel, there must be a circulatory system of sufficient capacity to carry the nutrients to the udder where the real process of milk secretion is carried on. The amount of circulation is indicated largely by the size and character of "milk veins" and "milk wells," or the veins on the cow's belly that carry the blood from the udder to the heart, and the size of the openings in the body wall through which the veins pass.

The yield of milk and butterfat depends also upon capacity of secretory glands located in the udder, so that it is very important that the cow have a large, well-shaped udder of the proper character—that is, not too fleshy.

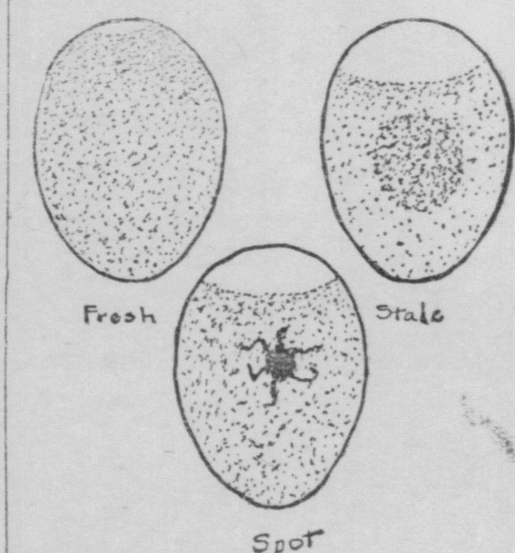

The difference in the profits derived from two dairy cows may very frequently be accounted for by difference in the capacity of these two animals. The one with small capacity may be able to take care of a quantity of feed sufficient for maintenance and the production of a small quantity of milk, enough to pay for her feed, but that is her limit and she has only reached the point where the profits should begin. The other cow can take in more feed and as a result has nutrients left above maintenance to be made into milk, over and above that quantity produced by the first cow, consequently a profit is made.

Experiments have shown that greater capacity in our dairy cows, other conditions being of similar character, means larger profits.

A small, dirty, stained or cracked egg is just as good for food, when fresh, as any egg can be, but they do not sell well upon the market because they cannot stand shipment. Such eggs should be kept at home.

All eggs should be given the best of care during the hot weather, because heat will quickly spoil an egg. They should be gathered often, kept in a cold, dry place and marketed often.

If every farmer will sell only fresh eggs of good weight and endeavor to cater to the demands of the market, he will derive more profit from them. The farmer should co-operate with the buyer who is buying "loss off" and help improve the general quality of the egg trade, for it means thousands of dollars to him and his neighbors. Increased quality will increase profit.

Try it on the Hogs.

The animal husbandry department is conducting an experiment to test the relative value of Canadian peas and rape as a hog pasture. Two lots of twelve hogs each are being fed shorts and tankage. One lot runs on Canadian peas and oats pasture while the other lot is running on rape pasture. The results of this experiment will appear later.

Buying Fertilizer.

Now is the time to consider the purchasing of fertilizer for the wheat crop next year. An expenditure of a few dollars on the proper kind of fertilizer at seeding time will mean a larger income at harvest time. Money spent for the right kind of fertilizer yields good returns on the investment.

To Have Poultry Assistant.

The poultry department, in charge of A. G. Phillips at Purdue, will have an assistant next year. The department has been definitely organized for only one year, but the work has grown so that it will be necessary to have another man to assist with the instruction.

SELLING EGGS ON THE MARKET

By A. G. PHILLIPS
Animal Husbandry Dept., Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

The proceeds from the eggs produced by the farm hen is an important item to the farmer. Last year it amounted to over $12,000,000. According to statistics, however, about $2,000,000 worth of eggs were lost by the farmer, due to improper methods of marketing.

The loss came from the sale of small, dirty, broken, stale, rotten and incubated eggs. The reason these eggs were sold was because of lack of difference in price in favor of fresh eggs.

Last winter a law was passed making it unlawful to sell stale or rotten eggs as fresh eggs, and in order to comply with this law, the buyers commenced quoting "loss off" prices, discriminating in favor of the good, fresh eggs, for which they pay their highest prices.

How to Detect Bad Eggs.—In order to detect bad eggs, it is necessary to candle or test them.

A Home-Made Tester in Use.

This is done by holding the egg in front of a hole through which lamp light is radiated into a dark room. By quickly turning the egg, the condition of the contents can be readily noted.

A fresh egg appears almost entirely free of any contents, with the air cell very small. A stale egg shows a large air cell and the dark outline of the yolk. An egg with a developed or dead germ shows a large air cell and a dark spot either movable or stuck to the shell. A rotten egg is muddy in appearance, with sometimes a movable floating air cell.

HARRY J. SMITH

Beattie's Lawyer Who Raises Quibble in Client's Defense.

MAY CHANGE COURSE OF BEATTIE'S TRIAL

Mysterious New Evidence to Sustain Defense.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25.—J. S. Minor, a contractor of Louisville, has offered to the defendant's attorneys information that may throw some light on the death of Louise Beattie, wife of Henry Clay Beattie, jr., who is now on trial in Virginia, charged with the murder of his wife. Mr. Minor has written letters to young Beattie's attorneys stating that he can furnish the names of two men who may be able to prove that Mrs. Beattie was killed by a highwayman on a lonely road near Richmond while out autoing with her husband July 18 last.

Minor said a man, well known to him, but whose identity he refused to disclose, called at his office about three weeks ago and told him there were two eyewitnesses to the killing of Mrs. Beattie. The man, Minor said, accidentally had met the two men who say they heard the shot that ended Mrs. Beattie's life.

The two men, Mr. Minor was told by his informant, were walking along the Middlethian road near Richmond on the night of the murder, when they passed a strange man carrying a gun over his shoulder. They paid no attention to the man with the gun, according to Minor, but walked on and when about 300 yards away an automobile, containing a man and a woman, appearing and chatting gaily, sped past going in the opposite direction. As the machine overtook the man with the gun a few hundred yards in the rear, the two eyewitnesses, according to Mr. Minor, heard angry voices and then a shot rang out. When the report reached their ears they came to a sudden stop and then ran in the direction taken by the auto. The mysterious individual with the gun had vanished.

He Was Despondent.
Richmond, Ind., Aug. 25.—Fred Hasemeier, forty-eight years old, a molder, committed suicide by drowning himself in the lake at Glen Miller park. Despondency because of ill health of both himself and wife are believed to have driven him to end his troubles.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the lions are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Rushville residents would do well to profit by the following example.

Mrs. Henry Fisher, 307 W. Hendricks street, Shelbyville, Ind., says: "I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills about three years ago. At that time I was suffering from kidney trouble and backache and I felt miserable in every way. I had often heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I finally procured a supply. The contents of two or three boxes gave me relief and I had no further trouble until recently when my back began to ache. I at once used Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved me as promptly as before. I have previously endorsed this remedy through the local papers and at this time I gladly confirm all I have said in its praise."

DEFENSE RAISES LEGAL QUIBBLE

Efforts of Beattie's Lawyers to Cloud Indictment.

NATURE OF GUNSHOT WOUND

Because Indictment Merely Stated That Wound Was Inflicted on Cheek Without Relating That Shot Penetrated the Brain and Thus Caused Death, Alleged Wife Murderer's Lawyer Seeks to Have Case Thrown Out

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Aug. 25.—It was as if the sanctity of the great wilderness were being profaned when in the little red brick house of justice, under the shade of the giant sycamores and with the smell of ripening corn and light wood smoke all about, garments, drenched with the blood of a murdered woman, were brought from secret places, and an automobile, toy of a wealthy man's son, all stained as the garments were stained, puffed its way through the forest aisle to be an exhibit in the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, jr., accused of wife murder.

It was the first anniversary of the wedding of Beattie and his bride, Louise Owen, for the taking of whose life he stands accused, and, a prisoner at the bar, he listened to the lawyer for the commonwealth say to a witness: "And now, doctor, how much blood do you think a woman the size of Mrs. Beattie would have in her body?"

And again he heard the lawyer say: "Do you think that if this woman were shot in the auto there could have been the mass of blood in the middle of Middlethian turnpike that you have described?"

Lawyers would have said that none of these things cited were of any consequence beside the very startling move that was made by Harry J. Smith, jr., chief counsel for Beattie, and a man reckoned one of the sharpest criminal lawyers in the south, when he attacked directly the indictment under which his client rested and out of the mouths of witnesses for the commonwealth drew an issue which Judge Watson will have to decide before the question of Beattie's guilt or innocence can go before the twelve men in the jury box. Dr. Herbert Mann, Dr. Wilbur Mercer and Coroner J. B. Loving had each gone on the stand among the prosecution's first witnesses to establish the corpus delicti after the necessary custom of homicide trials. Each had testified as to the nature of the gunshot wound in Mrs. Beattie's left cheek which they had examined.

When they had finished Mr. Smith asked the clerk to let him see the indictment which had been drawn against Beattie by the grand jury of Chesterfield county under the direction of Commonwealth Attorney James M. Gregory. With the document in his hand, Smith and his brother counsel put their heads together for five minutes. Then Attorney Smith arose to address the court on this remarkable proposition:

The indictment reads that Henry Clay Beattie, jr., had fired off and exploded a gun, causing the charge to strike the face of Louise Owen Beattie, etc., etc., but it did not say anything about the charge having been caused to go farther than the face of said Louise Owen Beattie and into her skull. On this ground Smith moved the court that all the testimony of the doctors appertaining to the hole in the murdered woman's skull be stricken out as irrelevant and immaterial. Smith then asked Coroner Loving who happened to be on the stand and who is a physician, if he were willing to swear that a charge of shot entering the cheek of a person and no further, in the manner set forth in the indictment, would be capable of causing death. Dr. Loving admitted that it probably would not. For a minute those in the courtroom did not realize that Beattie's lawyer had uncovered a very dangerous pitfall for the prosecution. Judge Watson ran his hand through his hair once or twice, and then said that he would take Attorney Smith's motion under advisement.

The fact of the matter is, according to lawyers who were spectators at the trial, that Smith had raised a very dangerous technicality. Though the indictment declared that this gunshot wound in Mrs. Beattie's cheek had caused death, one witness, qualified as an expert, had said that such a wound circumscribed by the wording of the indictment would not have been capable of bringing death, and other physicians if called would answer the same. If Judge Watson should overrule the motion of the attorney for the defense, he would lay himself open to reversal by the appellate court. He might within the discretion of the commonwealth attorneys secure a revision of the indictment by the grand jury, it was said.

When through May Stuart, a confessed proprietress of a disorderly house in Richmond, the prosecution got in evidence the fact that on the night before the death of Mrs. Beattie, Henry C. Beattie and Beulah Blinford were in each other's company at May Stuart's place, the defense made no attempt to refute this fact through the breaking down of the woman's testimony. It is expected that Beulah Blinford will be put on the stand early in the trial.

BARNARD WARNS FRUIT DEALERS

Food and Drug Commissioner Says
Melons and Vegetables Must be in Good Condition.

VIOLATORS MAY BE FINED

It behooves persons selling fruits or vegetables this year to be careful that none of it is in a decaying condition. The health authorities of the state have been instructed by H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, to be on the lookout for the fellow who sells bad apples, and peaches or other fruit, tomatoes, melons, etc., and if violators of the law are found it will probably go hard with them.

Following a circular letter sent out by Mr. Barnard:

"The attention of farmers, gardeners, hucksters and other persons producing or dealing in fruits and vegetables is called to section 2 of the pure food law which prohibits the sale of food law which consists in any proportion of decomposed, putrid or rotten vegetables substances, whether manufactured or not. This section plainly holds the farmer or merchant who sells unsound fruit such as apples, peaches and small fruits, tomatoes, melons and vegetables of every description, liable for violation of the pure food law. It applies with equal force to the farmer who sells his tomatoes, corn or fruit to the canning factory as to the commission man or retail merchant.

"County, city and town health officers, state food inspectors, and all other officers whose duty it is to enforce the pure food and sanitary food laws, will be governed by this notice in regulating the sale of fruits and vegetables.

GRAVEL HINDERS MACHINE TRAVEL

Automobilists Find it Difficult to Run
Cars Over Roads at This Season of Year.

ARE PILED HIGH WITH GRAVEL

Whether the farmers without automobiles are quietly laughing up their sleeves at the farmers and city folk who have automobiles, cannot be proven at this time, but it is known that the pikes of the county in most cases are in a condition that should be remedied. For miles and miles on the different pikes of Rush county hundreds of loads of gravel have been piled but not spread. The top of the gravel in some cases is a yard wide and that spread on the pikes at the bottom covers up all the road. Many cases are reported where automobile owners strike these piles and their machines stop, being unable to carry them through the stretches of gravel. One case is known where a machine stopped four times in passing through a small stretch of gravel and then went "dead." The farmers in other vehicles passed by and gave a quiet laugh.
